

ABSTRACT

At this Final Project, will be completed a web services for validating credit card subscription on the bank. This Web Services accepts a data set and data structure about credit card subscription from the bank, then classify the data to achieve the classes from that data set. Classes which achieved are the credit card type that suitable for each customer. Where the classification that performed by this web services is using pattern that is available at this web services.

This web services developed using Microsoft Visual Studio .NET C# with Oracle 8i as the database.

Keywords : Web Services, classification, pattern, credit card subscription validation