ABTRACT

Library have important role to shares a lot of information to students. but sometimes to get the the information require time and place because to get the library information , student have go to library.

Nowaday, the needs of information can be provided by wireless path. Various technologies are arise in balancing life style that becoming more dynamic. One of the technology is WAP (Wireless Application Protocol). WAP is a communication standard between mobile device telephone and information in internet. Whit this technology we can access information with handphone.

This application try to give the amenity in accessing of library information by using handphone like ordering by online, new book information etc.

In develop this application, i use waterfall method, built with use WML programming language, PHP programming language and processing of database use MySQL. Waterfall method devided to problem definition, feasibility study, analyze, design and implementation.

Key word : Wireless Application protocol (WAP) , PHP , Library