ABSTRACT

Information about Telkom which can easy to access and mobile in this time is very important for Telkom csutomers who's busy with their work activity. The information about Telkom can be used to reference their plan budget and to get the information about Telkom it's self. Nowadays, WAP is one of technology that developed. WAP is a mixing between handphone and internet. WAP information service application is one of alternatives for gaining Telkom informations.

Celluler phone is one of many communication tools which very popular recently. So the purpose of this Last Project is to development application which can help to acces information about call billing easily. In other word cellular phone easy to bring. This application development used WAP as handphone connection, WML language programming, Delphi for the Administrator and MySQL database.

This application can give some of services, such as : serving Telkom information, customer's outer calling and payment place, services information, news, customer services and call center.

Keyword: information services of Telkom, handphone, wap, delphi, mysql.