

Abstract

The Development library is never separated from the development of science and information technology. This is because libraries are so closely related to science and technology information.

It requires high school library manager Kesatrian 1 Semarang as one provider of information to continuously follow developments and make decisions to improve, develop and update any information presented.

The amount of interest to the library community must respond with increasingly sophisticated service and professional by the manager of the Virtual Library Information System of the SMA Kesatrian 1 Semarang.
