

Abstract

Practicum is one of the ways of teaching that aims to make college students get the opportunity to test and implement the real from the theory that has been obtained. Certainly to carry out practicum requires data and activities management to be done so that practicum can run smoothly and effectively. As well as practicum activities at the Electrical and Communication Laboratory IT Telkom, which requires data and activities management of practicum. However, some data and activities management of practicum are still done manually, such as management, storage and distribution of students' marks.

Therefore, the presence of Data and Activities Management Application of Practicum Electrical and Communication Faculty Laboratory IT Telkom is expected to be in terms of managing the data and practicum activities.

The functionalities contained in this web-based application include, are students registration management, module distribution management, students' marks management, dissemination of information of marks to students, and display assets, research and laboratory activities.

Keywords : Practicum, Management, Data, Activities, Marks, Dissemination, Information.